Attempt To Free Griffith From Prison

DUBLIN, May 14.—An unsuccessful attempt was made this morning to rescue Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Féin organization, from his confinement in Mountjoy prison.

Famous Morse Elm At Capital Is Removed

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The famous Morse elm at the corner of Pennsylvania avenue and Fourteenth street, one of the oldest landmarks in the national capital, is gone. It was removed at midnight after a long, but losing fight for its life, which began when Fourteenth street was widened some years ago.

The tree has looked down upon every inaugural parade held in Washington. It was named for Samuel P. Morse, inventor of the telegraph, who tradition relates, often sat beneath it and recited to interested listeners the wonders of the telegraph. In the old days many famous politicians also would gather in its shade to discuss affairs of party and state.

Spring Blizzard Sweeps Lake

SARLET STE MARIE, MICH., May 14.—One of the worst spring blizzards in years swept over Lake Superior last night, driving all lake vessels into harbor. Wireless reports today showed all craft to be safe. Six inches of wet snow fell during the storm and the temperature dropped to below freezing during the night.

GUN BATTLE IN MOUNTAINS MERELY PHASE OF GREATER STRUGGLE IN RICH COAL ZONE

WILLIAMSON, W. VA., May 14.—The battle in the mountains of Mingo county, West Virginia, and Pike county, Kentucky, along the Tug river, which has raged for several days, there as it has been, is merely a phase of a greater struggle in which this rich coal district is locked—the industrial struggle over the question of unionizing or keeping "open" the mines.

And that greater struggle is being waged with every known weapon. Union miners on "lock-out strike," as the leaders describe it, are evicted from homes owned by the coal companies, to settle nearby on leased land in tent colonies. No longer able to trade at the company commissaries at the various mining towns, they subsist on rations shipped in by the international union. Deprived of funds as a result of being out of work, they draw benefits from the international union. Men who have followed the situation profess to regard it as the most serious that has arisen since the trouble began, not excepting the Matewan shooting last May 19, in which ten were slain.

The operators are firm in their determination to keep the field open at any cost. The United Mine Workers are equally determined in their insistence that the struggle must go on until their union is recognized. The questions of wages and working conditions also enter into the disagreement, but these admittedly are minor considerations. David Robb, international financial agent of the United Mine Workers, who is directing union activities in this district, made public today the first statement he has issued since the industrial warfare flared up again.

"The lock-out strike in this field can never be settled by things and guns," declared Mr. Robb, asserting that the battle which started Thursday has been brought about by attacks on union miners by non-union men now employed in the fields.

"A high percentage of the men now out are Americans, natives of this district, and they do not propose to be driven from their homes. Any one who knows the mountaineers' temperament, knows that they won't be intimidated and that they will not allow their women and children to be made into targets."

According to Mr. Robb, there are about 2,500 men still on "lock-out strike" in the district, most of whose places have been taken by non-union workers from other parts of the country. He declared the coal operators had

GOVERNORS MORGAN AND MORROW, N. & W. MANAGER ASK U. S. TO STOP FIGHTING

WILLIAMSON, W. VA., May 14.—Telegrams predicting a spread of the mountain fighting in the Williamson coal district to a front 50 miles long, unless federal troops are sent into the region at once were dispatched to Governors Morgan, of West Virginia, and Morrow, of Kentucky, by Harry Olmsted, acting chairman of the labor committee of the Williamson Coal Operators Association.

WILLIAMSON, W. VA., May 14.—Firing has become general over virtually all the entire battle front of seven miles in the Williamson coal district, it was reported at 11 o'clock today, the third day of the gun fight between sympathizers and opponents of the United Mine Workers.

Deputy sheriffs at Murraine reported the attackers on the Kentucky side of the river were exhibiting greater boldness than on the preceding days of the fight. Instead of lurking in the heavily wooded mountains, they had come, the deputies said, to the bank of the river and were shooting across into the towns at a range of not more than 100 yards. Deputy Sheriff Clark at Murraine described the fire of such intensity that the attackers were "shooting the tops off the houses."

Captain Brookes, of the state police, and Sheriff Pison immediately arranged for a special train and marshaled a force of twenty troopers and deputies to go to the trouble zone when they heard of the fresh outbreaks. The train also was loaded with provisions for men, women and children in the besieged mining towns, some of whom are said to have been without food for 24 hours.

No information as to casualties in today's fighting was obtainable. According to an unconfirmed report received at the Williamson Coal Operators' Association, Matewan also is under heavy fire. It was reported at the offices of the association also that J. P. Smith, superintendent of Stone Mountain Coal Company, had been attacked by Sid Hatfield, former chief of police. The report stated that Hatfield had struck Smith with a rifle butt. Hatfield is the principal defendant in the cases growing out of the battle at Matewan last May, in which ten persons were killed.

An unconfirmed report was received at state police headquarters this afternoon that four men had been killed in the fighting at Lynn, W. Va. Captain Brookes, who went to Matewan on a special train shortly after noon, reported by telephone to Williamson that the firing had died down between Rawl and Matewan, W. Va.

WILLIAMSON, W. VA., May 14.—The battle in the mountains, which has raged for two days between sympathizers and opponents of the United Mine Workers in the Williamson coal district, was resumed today at McCarr, Ky., and Lynn, W. Va., a little village near McCarr. Firing also was reported at Sprigg.

McCarr, according to the authorities, is regarded as the most dangerous point on the fighting front. It is estimated that fully 200 men are in the mountains there and steady firing is reported in progress.

The total death list for the two days' fighting still was in doubt this morning. At least five men are known to have been killed, but unconfirmed rumors of other killings continue to come into Williamson.

PIKEVILLE, KY., May 14.—Terrific firing from both the Kentucky and West Virginia sides of the Tug river along the section that has been in a virtual state of war for the last forty-eight hours, was resumed early today, according to reports from Pike county officers in the trouble zone. From the West Virginia side came word that a number of men whose names had not been learned, were killed.

Sheriff W. H. Sowers this morning sent out a call to every section of the county for deputy sheriffs, of whom he has nearly 300, to report at once for duty along the Kentucky side of the Tug. He said that he would make a final effort to gain control of the situation on the Kentucky side.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 14.—Major General Read, commandant of the fifth corps area, was instructed today by Secretary Weeks to send federal troops into Mingo county, West Virginia, if the general deemed the presence of troops there necessary to quell the border disturbance.

The number of troops to go was left to the discretion of General Read, but Secretary Weeks' order was that all the soldiers necessary to restore order be moved. General Read advised the department yesterday that he was holding a force in readiness pending instructions from Washington and advised from a staff officer sent into Mingo county to investigate the situation.

The question of sending troops to quell the disturbance, it was said yesterday at the war department, had been referred to President Harding, but Secretary Weeks declined to say today whether any instructions had come from the president.

Secretary Weeks made public telegrams received yesterday from the governors of West Virginia and Kentucky describing the situation in Mingo county and requesting that federal troops take charge of the situation. The wire from Governor Morgan, of Kentucky, said:

"Lawless situation existing along Kentucky and West Virginia border line, Tug river boundary between Pike county, Kentucky, and Mingo, West Virginia. Situation beyond the control of state forces at my command. Join in request of governor of West Virginia made to me and proper military authorities that federal troops be sent there to control the situation and restore law and order."

Passengers and employees on Norfolk and Western trains in the strike area have been forced by lying bullets to take refuge beneath the seats of the cars, according to a complaint made to Governor Morgan, of West Virginia, by W. J. Jenks, general manager of the railroad, and forwarded to Secretary Weeks. A wire from Governor Morgan received at the war department last night, said:

"Supplementing former telegrams, following received from W. J. Jenks, general manager of the Norfolk and Western Railway: 'It is my duty to inform you that during the past two days reckless shooting has been prevalent along the line of the Norfolk and Western Railroad in Mingo county, near Matewan, and continues today. Passengers and employees have felt it necessary to protect themselves from stray or intentional bullets by lying down beneath the windows of passenger cars. Telegraph and telephone wires have been shot down in some places and linemen are unable to make repairs account such shooting. We invoke your aid.'

Boy May Face Charge Of Murder

COLUMBUS, O., May 14.—Possibility of a 14 year old boy going before Franklin county courts on a murder charge loomed up today, according to Assistant County Prosecutor, Joseph Godown, following his examination of friends of Louis Ranzazzo, 14, who died from a bullet wound inflicted from a revolver in the hands of Sam Salomony, 14, late Thursday.

According to the dead youth's friends, Godown said, Ranzazzo was a member of a "gang" said to have been under the leadership of Salomony.

Recently, Godown said he was told Ranzazzo refused to accompany the "gang" to Springfield to break a safe and threatened to "sneak" Salomony, at that time, Godown said, threatened to "get" Ranzazzo. Salomony, who is held by juvenile authorities, declares Ranzazzo stepped in front of a revolver he was firing at a target.

Business Section Is Destroyed

LEXINGTON, TENNESSEE, May 14.—The business section of Wildersville, a town of 800 people, about ten miles from here, was wiped out by fire yesterday. Six general stores, the post office, bank, drug store, and railroad depot, were among the buildings destroyed. The loss will exceed $50,000.

No casualties were reported.

PARENTS PROTEST VACCINATION

NEWARK, O., May 14.—More than one thousand Newark parents last night voted to protest against an order of the school board and board of health requiring the vaccination of school children or be barred from school next week. The resolution demanded that the order be modified or that the schools be closed for the rest of the school year. There are fifty cases of smallpox in the city.

WASHINGTON—Secretary Weeks advocated before the senate military committee an army of not less than 175,000 men.

France Opposed To German Invasion Of Upper Silesia

PARIS, May 14.—France is unalterably opposed to any German military operations in Upper Silesia, declared Premier Briand today.

"Never, never could the French government consent to German troops entering Upper Silesia," the premier explained to a hundred foreign correspondents, whom he received at the foreign office in consequence of Premier Lloyd George's speech yesterday in the British House of Commons.

"German bands are operating in Upper Silesia, maltreating and arresting Poles," continued M. Briand. "Not all the disorders in that province are produced by the Poles. The French government could not permit German military forces to intervene in such a situation."

"I protest with all my energy against the false impressions being spread throughout the world. The French government has fulfilled to the utmost of its power its duty in Upper Silesia. We have 12,000 troops there who have had to deal with 300,000 insurgents and a rising of several hundred thousand persons."

"The French troops could do no more than hold the cities, the towns and the strategic points."

"If the British government would send fifty thousand troops there to help us, the disorders could be put down quickly."

"The news received by the foreign office from Upper Silesia today is that the insurgents are going to their homes and returning to work."

"The French government's solution is that the allies should in the first place assume a calm attitude and instruct their commissioners in Upper Silesia to try to reach a unanimous agreement."

"Such an agreement, said M. Briand, 'would not be difficult if all considerations except the results of the plebiscite were excluded. The French government's only instructions to its commissioner,' he said, 'were to determine, according to the majority of the ballots in the various communes, which should go to Poland and which to Germany."

PARIS, May 14.—The entry of German troops into Upper Silesia would provoke intervention by regular Polish troops, which would mean war, and in such a war France could not remain neutral, according to expressions in official circles here today.

The utmost amazement was expressed in these quarters at the speech of Mr. Lloyd George, the British prime minister, on the Upper Silesian situation, containing what is regarded here as extraordinary friendly references to Germany and judgments hostile toward Poland and unsympathetic toward France.

Premier Briand himself took the unusual course of receiving all the foreign newspaper correspondents in a group this afternoon to present to them what the French government had done and intended to do.

BERLIN, May 14.—Collapse of the Polish revolt in Upper Silesia is expected in authoritative quarters there, according to a special dispatch received here from Breslau. Important conferences are now in progress, and it is believed that Adolphe Koranyi, leader of the Poles, has lost his fight to secure Upper Silesia for Poland.

PARIS, May 14.—Newspapers of this city today paid deep regret and considerable surprise over the address yesterday by Prime Minister Lloyd George in the British house of commons during which he severely arraigned Poland.

The Petit Parisien, declared Mr. Lloyd George, was "playing the game of Germany," and denied the truth of the assertion that the indigenous population of Upper Silesia was German.

"No one," it added, "has the right, either in England or in France, to regard the rules of common sense and

HARDING AND HUGHES DETERMINED TO AVOID HINT OF WILSON POLICY

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1921, by Times Pub. Co.)
WASHINGTON, May 13.—Efforts to differentiate between the foreign policy of the Harding and Wilson administrations respectively are not giving either President Harding or Secretary Hughes much concern. They feel they are pursuing a different policy. To the team of Democratic press that the Harding administration is resolutely but surely following in the steps of its predecessors, Secretary Hughes has just given a rather positive answer—he has announced that America will not take part in the quarrel over the possession of Upper Silesia. This he considers a strictly European affair.

The supporters of the Wilson regime, particularly those in Congress who have been much pleased by the American decision to participate in the Allied Council, says this is a distinction without a difference. Their charge, that Messrs. Harding and Hughes are assuming that the Wilson administration would have agreed to the use of American troops and resources in settling such quarrels as that in Silesia. Of this, it is insisted, there is no proof—nothing except repeating charges of the "irreconcilables" to strictly European interests.

To Avoid Wilson Policy
Nevertheless it is a fact—and this is the important thing that is doing—going here—that President Harding and Secretary Hughes are determined to avoid even the implications of the Wilson policy and they are confident that in everything done thus far they have been successful in having to the line of strictly American as opposed to strictly European interests.

Mr. Hughes has said in effect that Ambassador Harvey will sit in the Supreme Council meetings as the personal representative of the United States. The other representatives—Ambassador Horlick at Paris, who will attend the council of Ambassadors, and Mr. Bogden, who will be present at the meetings of the Reparations Commission—will be unofficial observers or reporters. But Ambassador Harvey has been instructed to "take part" in the deliberations of the Supreme Council.

Harvey has Big Discretionary Powers
It is an explanation of just this phrase "take part" means which is just

Laura had been blind from babyhood, and, like all blind people, had learned to see with her fingers. The strange fate which gave her back her sight to her took away the kind friends who had sheltered her, and she fell into the hands of a crook who conceived the fiendish idea of making her sensitive fingers open the combinations of the safes he would rob. But rescue came just in time. "EYES OF THE HEART" is MARY MILES MINTER'S most powerful picture.

OFFICIALS ON THE TRAIL OF THIEVES WHO ROBBED WOLFF CLOTHING STORE; PART OF LOOT RECOVERED

ST. MARY'S CLASS PLAY

The velvet curtain majestically draped from its hangings, kept the audience before it in breathless suspense as to what its opaque expanse shielded. At length a burst of music broke the stillness, and as it by some unseen power, the curtain slowly drew back, revealing a husky band of pirates picturesquely garbed. With their ferocious visages browned by tropical sun, their death-dealing blunderbusses and keel-edged knives, they indeed formed a unique group, and the interest of the audience reached a high level. The last strains of the opening chorus were drowned out by the thunderous plaudits of the appreciative spectators.

The romantic play in which a generous supply of wit and humor was interwoven, was replete with thrilling action. In fact there was not a dull moment in the entire play. The capable execution of the central theme by the two leading characters, the droll remarks and unique antics of the comedians, the perfect beauty of the chorus, the individuality of the well-trained soloists, the clever group presentation, the aesthetic dancing of the Spanish senoritas, the arrangements of the settings, and electrical effects, along with the exceptional direction of Mrs. Walter Gableman, and the untiring work of the patient Sisters, affected one of the most successful productions ever staged by any high school students.

Greater words than were expressed could not be uttered in appreciation of the characters of the cast for in mastery of technique and dramatic ability they surpassed the usual interpretive power of high school students. The leading roles were filled by Albert Sommer and Anna Goodman, and much favorable comment was heard respecting their performance. The hero's part required skill of interpretation, and Albert Sommer well came up to the difficult part assigned him, while Anna Goodman's sweet and simple manner won the general favor of the audience and showers of flowers from friends. Helen Schaefer by her natural winsome manner and artistic interpretation, won the hearts and applause of the audience. She received a shower of flowers. When it came to sighs and pessimistic remarks, Louise Glockner showed considerable interpretation. Julian Snyder, as a financier, although espousing the villain's role, very ably came in for his share of the applause. Jane Snyder and Anna Goodman several times during the evening brought the house into roars by their clever acting. William Haug claimed a mature role and executed it very efficiently. Raymond Flannigan, the diminutive governor, very ably held his part in the fun-making, and a prominent musical comedy man was heard to remark that he was a real artist in the portrayal of character. Charles Snyder brought thunderous applause by his display of sympathy during a sad story told in song by Helen Schaefer. Every movement and word of his was appreciated because of his natural humor. Victor Laletz who played the losing suitor's part needed but to appear, to bring pleasure while his expression "How shocking," brought applause each time. Thaddeus Laletz as the ferocious pirate leader, kept his subordinates in rapid action during the entire evening.

A pretty little song executed by the little ones of the first and second grades was accompanied by a tip-toe dance. Their exit was followed by tremendous applause. Many expressions were heard to the effect that the Sweet Peas March, given by the third and fourth grades, was alone worth the price of admission. The snappy Spanish dance, of which the performers were graceful dames of the high school with their gorgeous costumes, attracted the attention of the audience, and made the story more realistic. If some of our pioneer backwoodsman came back to earth to witness the Indian dance, executed by the seventh and eighth grade girls, they would open their eyes in wide astonishment to see themselves so well characterized. It is reported that a prominent theatrical manager is endeavoring to engage the services of these Indians for a special performance in his theater.

Between acts one and two the high school quartet sang two favorite songs. This quartet has won great favor with the public.

The closing scene embodied all the tension of a melodrama, and matters came to a head in a most imposing manner. The skillful handling of the plot made possible a spectacular ending which capped the climax of the best musical comedy ever presented by amateurs on a Portsmouth stage.

All the music was rendered by selected members of Saint Mary's High School Orchestra.

The Scout Master took this occasion for presenting the teams of Troop 27, with the three pennants won by them the last season. Joseph Schaefer, as captain of the Bantam team, received two, the League and tournament prizes, while William Haug received the Scout League prize for that team.

Although more than $400 worth of the loot secured by the burglars that visited the Wolff clothing store last Tuesday night was recovered Friday night by Sheriff E. E. Rickey and other officers, still at large, but their identity is known and the officers expect to apprehend the guilty ones before many hours.

Acting on a clue the sheriff and County Detective Fred Baker, started an investigation Friday which led them to a house in this city and the uncovering of two suit cases filled with merchandise which was later identified as having been stolen from the Wolff store, the officials say. One of the cases contained 15 new shirts, 2 belts, cap, two suits of clothing and a pair of pants, to the value of $120. The other case contained 7 pairs of underwear, bathing suit, 4 pairs of garters, 7 collars, cut buttons, pair of shoes, with a value of $63.07.

The officials later received word that two suit cases had been abandoned in an uncompleted dwelling located in the neighborhood of the school quarter near two favorite songs. This quartet has won great favor with the public.

DR. ADAMS OUT ON BOND; SAYS HE WILL TRY TO SETTLE CLAIMS

Dr. Charles C. Adams, former local chiropractor, who was bound over to the grand jury from Municipal court on a charge of obtaining $1500 from Edward S. Bragg, 1699 Gallia street, under false pretenses, was released from custody Saturday when Joseph C. Adams, of New Lexington, father of the accused, who arrived in the city Friday night, arranged with a local man to sign the $2500 bond.

On his release from custody Dr. Adams announced his intention of remaining here for a few days and during the time plans to make an effort to iron out his tangled financial affairs. He stated that he has more than sufficient unpaid accounts on his books to more than square up everything and he hopes to be successful in collecting enough to settle all claims.

Adams was arrested and returned here from Reifonsmith, where he located after leaving here and where he was planning to establish a chiropractic school.

Judge Westonhaver did not take any action today on the allegation that city officials were negligent in protecting men who sought to enter the plant to work.

An order will be issued Monday containing the decision of the court.

GOT IT FOR THE ASKING

Here's a prescription for all ye thirsty ones: It may not work in all cases but it worked for Sam Adams, who was arrested on a charge of intoxication and was before Municipal Judge Sprague Saturday morning.

According to Adams, who made the reply in answer to Judge Sprague's question as to where he got his supply of moonshine, he just journeyed over the river to South Portsmouth and at the C. & O. station, jokingly asked a man if he had any moonshine, to which the man answered in the negative, and then sold Adams a half pint. It was a good story and the court only assessed a fine of $5 and costs. Adams is home for a few days awaiting transfer to some tuberculosis sanitarium.

Wayne L. Elkins Is Receiver

CINCINNATI, O., May 14.—Wathan Rogers Company, New York; The Specialty Mailbox Company, Huntington, W. Va.; and the Shiner Manufacturing Company, Logan, Ohio, yesterday filed involuntary bankruptcy proceedings in United States District Court against H. C. Ketter, Ironton, Ohio, merchant.

The petitioners say that the goods purchased from them by the alleged bankrupt were ordered and delivered in 1915, when Ketter was operating under the name of Smith Bros. Co. For the last four months they have been doing business under the name of the Ketter Garage Co.

The petitioners alleged also that they are unable to state the amount and character of Ketter's assets and that whatever assets he has have been concealed from them. They aver, however, that some of the assets consist of automobiles, supplies, merchandise and accounts.

Upon hearing on the application for the appointment of a temporary receiver and the petitioning creditors, judges to receive the extra money.

WOLFF CLOTHING STORE; PART OF LOOT RECOVERED

Although more than $400 worth of the loot secured by the burglars that visited the Wolff clothing store last Tuesday night was recovered Friday night by Sheriff E. E. Rickey and other officers, still at large, but their identity is known and the officers expect to apprehend the guilty ones before many hours.

Acting on a clue the sheriff and County Detective Fred Baker, started an investigation Friday which led them to a house in this city and the uncovering of two suit cases filled with merchandise which was later identified as having been stolen from the Wolff store, the officials say. One of the cases contained 15 new shirts, 2 belts, cap, two suits of clothing and a pair of pants, to the value of $120. The other case contained 7 pairs of underwear, bathing suit, 4 pairs of garters, 7 collars, cut buttons, pair of shoes, with a value of $63.07.

The officials later received word that two suit cases had been abandoned in an uncompleted dwelling located in the neighborhood of the school quarter near two favorite songs. This quartet has won great favor with the public.

The closing scene embodied all the tension of a melodrama, and matters came to a head in a most imposing manner. The skillful handling of the plot made possible a spectacular ending which capped the climax of the best musical comedy ever presented by amateurs on a Portsmouth stage.

All the music was rendered by selected members of Saint Mary's High School Orchestra.

The Scout Master took this occasion for presenting the teams of Troop 27, with the three pennants won by them the last season. Joseph Schaefer, as captain of the Bantam team, received two, the League and tournament prizes, while William Haug received the Scout League prize for that team.

Biblical Criticism: Higher, Lower

By John Collins Jackson

The term higher criticism may sound like a laughable assumption of superior knowledge. We have pointed out that the word criticism itself implies no hostility, but means, primarily, an examination of something with a view to determining its merits and demerits. The qualifying word "higher" is used when such investigation applies to literature. In Biblical literature it distinguishes the effort to find the history of any book or passage of the sacred library, from the accompanying effort to learn whether the text is genuine, or whether it may have been mis-copied in one or more of the forms through which it has passed in by-gone centuries. "Lower" does not imply inferiority, nor "higher" mean superiority, in this connection. They are arbitrary terms for distinction between judging the history of a book, and the accuracy of its text. Bearing these facts in mind may help to reflect on our natural prejudice against what is called "higher criticism."

The conditions which give birth to any science always precede it. Investigation, or criticism in its primary and larger sense, began with the first thinking mind. The shepherds, who naturally looked up into the heavens as they kept their flocks by night, observed the stars. That laid the basis for future astronomy. Man observed the habits of animals, and from such study and practice of medicine followed. So it has ever been that God instructed man through nature, and still does so. The Wright brothers learning how to master the air from observing the movements of birds, is one of the latest of these lessons.

Precisely so thoughtful readers of sacred writ observed its peculiarities.

The science of biblical criticism was the outgrowth. The historical conditions under which biblical writings originated, and how they naturally were shaped by them in thought, form, etc., as well as the ear-marks of expression, led to the study of their purpose, nature and authorship. Naturally every reflective Bible reader becomes, to some extent, an unconscious higher critic. That habit of mind is in no way unfriendly to piety. The devout and learned Richard Baxter, author of "The Saints' Everlasting Rest," nearly 300 years ago, held that the Bible is not all infallible or equally important. It is well for "fearful saints" to read his wise words of caution yet. In one of his many volumes entitled "Catechisms of Families," he says: "And here I must tell you a great and useful truth which, ignorant Christians fearing to confess, by over-doing, tempt men to infidelity. The Scripture is like a man's body, where some parts are but for the preservation of the rest, and may be maintained without death; the sense of the soul of Scripture and the letter is but the body or vehicle. The doctrine of the Creed, Lord's prayer and Decalog and baptism, and Lord's supper, is the vital part of Christianity. 'The Old Testament letter' (written, as we have it, about 1500 years ago), is that vehicle which is as imperfect as the revelation of these things was; so that, he that doubts of the truth of some of the Old Testament, or of some small circumstances of the New, hath no reason, therefore, to doubt of that Christian religion, of which these writings are but the vehicle or body, sufficient to ascertain us of the truth of the history and doctrine."

The good common sense of Baxter's position must appeal to all unprejudiced minds. Yet what condemnation and persecution have attended similar statements, when given as the findings of modern higher criticism? To profess, intolerance is thy son, and intolerance thy daughter! Equally unfortunate is the confusion arising from the indiscriminate use of the term "destructive criticism." There is such a thing, but as not all is gold that glitters, neither is all that is destructive, destructive criticism. There can be no constructive or reconstructive criticism which is not preceded by destruction. Progress and improvement are impossible without destructive action first. The pioneers destroyed trees, and built log huts. Their sons destroyed log huts, and built frame houses. The next generation destroyed frame cottages, and built brick and stone mansions. The farmer destroys seed and raises corn. The yellow candles have yielded to electric lights. Childhood's toys give place to manhood's tools. This is God's law of progress.

So when you hear the expression "destructive criticism" ask, destructive of what? Destructive of the belief that God has given us a revelation of His will in the Bible? or is it only destructive of our inherited interpretations of that revelation? It is inevitable that our understanding of the way in which God reveals His truth should differ with our differing conceptions of the divine nature, and of all nature. But the fact of the revelation itself stands unchanged. A scientific revelation has been the basis of theology. The outward form must change over. The life-giving spirit alone can abide the same yesterday, today and forever.

One-third of the fools in the country think they can beat a lawyer expounding the laws. One-half think they can beat the doctor healing the sick. Two-thirds of them think they can put the minister in the hole expounding the gospel, and all of them think they can beat the editor running a paper.—Carena Square Deal.
Reasonable Explanation.
Perhaps the idea that two can be as cheaply as one originated in the mind of a young fellow who boomed with his father-in-law.

WHAT STITCHING CAN DO TO PLAIN WHITE FLANNEL

Just then the moon came from under a cloud and by its light Billy saw the long pigtail of the Chinaman, hanging from his head to the ground. Billy's eyes twinkled, his mouth stretched into a smile, for he saw his chance to pay the Chinaman back for all the insults he had heaped upon him.

He would walk up and chew the pigtail off the Chinaman's head, as he would a straw pipe. This would be the worst punishment he could possibly inflict on the Chinaman, and would wipe out old scores.

But what if his rope would not be long enough to reach the sleeping Chinaman. He advanced cautiously, and, on joy, he would just allow him to touch the Chinaman's head and he could chew the end of close to the scalp, which would make the man more angry than ever.

At first Billy chewed slowly and cautiously for fear of waking the Chinaman, but he soon saw he need have no fear. He was not to be awakened even by a thunderbolt.

"Billy, what are you doing?" asked Sunday, who had stuck his head back through the fence to see if the Chinaman had gone.

Mrs. SELCHERT'S DAUGHTER

Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Horicon, Wis.—"My young daughter had been troubled for several months with backache and a bad feeling in her stomach. She did not eat anything, while before she was so hungry she could hardly wait for her meals. The doctors gave her medicine, but it did not help her. One day I was reading a little book of yours and it reminded me that when I was a young girl I took several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So she went to the drug store and got a bottle, and after taking the second one she could eat and has not had backache since. In all she took six bottles of it. She goes to school and on Saturdays helps with the housework. She is a normal, healthy girl now and we recommend your medicine. You have my permission to publish this letter as a testimonial for the Vegetable Compound."

BILLY WHISKER

"Hark!" said Billy, after Sunday had brought him a nice cabbage. "I hear some one coming. It must be the Chinaman getting home late."

It was, and was so dazed from the opium he had been smoking that he scarcely knew the way home, and when at last he found it, he came through the little side door into the yard and made a face at Billy Jr., as he always did. He came stumbling along, kicking everything in his way, including poor Billy's cabbage, which rolled out of his reach.

Then he threw himself down on a bench in the arbor and fell fast asleep, thinking he was in his own bed in the house.

Now Billy had stood all he was going to from this particular Chinaman, and when he kicked his beloved cabbage out of his reach, Billy was furious and looked round to see what he could do to the Chinaman to pay him back.

Just then the moon came from under a cloud and by its light Billy saw the long pigtail of the Chinaman, hanging from his head to the ground.

Billy's eyes twinkled, his mouth stretched into a smile, for he saw his chance to pay the Chinaman back for all the insults he had heaped upon him.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

MONOTONY THREATENS
Life in Wellburg was an entirely different affair from life in Chicago. That Cherry soon found out.

The family arose, as the rest of the inhabitants of Wellburg did, at eight o'clock every morning. Breakfast was at eight-thirty to the dot. After that, excellent meal Ned went off to his office, leaving his wife to her own devices, more or less, for the rest of the day.

After the first few days Cherry found herself at a loss for something to do. Mrs. Randall, as head of the household, took full charge of everything pertaining to it, save the dusting and such small and uninteresting details, which she delegated to June. Even the garden was her special "duty."

Cherry longed to be able to run out and dig about, and do as she wanted in the lovely flower beds, but she soon found out that was considered a crime in her mother-in-law's eyes. She then discovered a quiet little nook, in the woods in back of the house, and every morning after her breakfast she would walk there with a book in her hands and sit and dream and read until the luncheon bell summoned her to the table.

Here, for an hour, surrounded by the family, she saw her husband again. But it was not a very satisfying sort of seeing, somehow. In fact as the days went by, she realized that she saw comparatively little of Ned, alone. And this fact ate into her soul.

"Honey-moon Hill" seemed farther away than ever. It was growing midly in her mind, and Ned rarely spoke of these days any more. He was absorbed in his work.

Sometimes in the afternoon Cherry would drop into the movies or pay calls with her mother-in-law, or again she would drop into the tennis club and play until she was tired. Just to take her mind off certain things that bothered her more and more as time went on.

The Way It Goes.
"A man lives three lives—youth, manhood and age," philosophically stated Professor Pate. "Youth is the rising sun of life, when he thinks of what a heck of a fellow he is going to be; manhood is the sun at full meridian, when he is satisfied that he is indeed a heck of a fellow; age is the setting sun, when he sits around and brags about what a heck of a fellow he used to be."—Judge.

Fuss and Feathers.
"Some men uses big words," said Uncle Eben, "de same as 'a turkey spreads his tail feathers.' Dey makes an elegant impression, but dey don't represent no real meat."

Deadly Germs on Bank Notes.
When one of the one-franc notes, used so commonly in Paris, was subjected to microscopic examination, the chemist's report showed there were more than 230,000,000 germs attached to it, the accumulation from dirty hands and untidy treatment while it was in circulation, many of the germs being of a deadly nature and the bill came in contact with a cut in the flesh.

THAT SILLIEST FEELING—BY BRIGGS

FEAST OF PENTECOST OBSERVED TODAY

The Vigil of the Feast of Pentecost was observed in the St. Mary's and Holy Redeemer churches today. It was a day of fasting.

Pentecost Sunday will be appropriately celebrated in both Holy Redeemer and St. Mary's Catholic churches today. The feast of Pentecost commemorates the complete organization of the Church of Christ. The Holy Ghost, the Third Person of the Blessed Trinity, descended on Pentecost Sunday in the form of tongues of fire over the head of each of the Apostles gathered together in Jerusalem.

The collections taken up at the masses on Pentecost Sunday are used to aid young men aspiring to the priesthood.

It is expected that unusually large numbers will attend Holy Communion at both churches tomorrow.

The masses at the Holy Redeemer church will be at the regular hours, 7:30 and 9:30 (old time). At St. Mary's church, the high mass will be at 7:30 at which time the first Communions will approach the altar. The low mass will be at 10:30 (new time), a half hour later than usual.

Harding And Hughes

coming to the surface. Colonel Harvey Blusick has the biggest discretionary powers ever given to an American citizen abroad with the possible exception of Woodrow Wilson himself. The other representatives at the Supreme Council are heads of government, public ministers and plenipotentiaries. Mr. Harvey is the personal representative of the President of the United States, and as such is privileged to speak up and "take part" only when "American interests" are under discussion. Of course the Silesian question is not an "American interest" and Colonel Harvey will remain silent and if asked his opinion will state American's profound hope that the Europeans will settle it themselves but specifically refraining from any commitment on the part of the United States. Harvey has to handle World Skillfully.

The reparations question, however, is construed as of American interest. Whenever it is up for discussion Ambassador Harvey is authorized to express himself but with care and caution that he does not commit the United States to anything except to the use of moral influence in making Germany pay.

It is realized here of course, that when certain matters are up for discussion Ambassador Harvey's silence may be construed as a refusal by the United States to approve what the allies may be advocating. That's where the skill of Col. Harvey in the use of words will come in handy for if the official reports say that the Supreme Council unanimously agreed to a policy of physical force in Silesia, for example, Mr. Harvey will find it expedient to give the press the word he was "present but not voting."

Here's Where Harvey Takes Part. Should the Yap question be considered at a meeting of the Supreme Council Ambassador Harvey's powers of expression will not be limited. He can "take part" to the full extent of his capacity for persuasion. The Yap mandate is considered strictly an American interest. Anything else like Yap will find Ambassador Harvey an active member of the Supreme Council. That in a nut shell is the difference between the Wilson and Harding policies—an announced plan on the part of this administration to refrain from discussing matters of "strictly European" concern as against an implied plan to use American influence if not physical force in European quarrels which might be considered as having a direct bearing on the future of American trade and investments abroad.

New Minister At Sciotoville Church Sunday

What Is Man? Hear Answer

In his morning sermon at the First Presbyterian Church tomorrow at ten-thirty, the pastor, Rev. D. C. Boyd, will endeavor to answer the well-known cry of the Psalmist, "What Is Man?" This question, which is fundamental to an understanding of any conception of Salvation, will be a companion sermon to that preached two weeks ago from the text, "Who Art Thou, Lord?"

At this service the newly elected members of the board of deacons, O. J. Deltzer, Maurice A. Cooper and Harry L. Glick will be ordained, according to the impressive ritual of the Episcopal Church. The evening service, as previously announced, will be held at seven-thirty. The evening sermon will be another vital theme, peculiarly touching a problem of the day: "Making Light of Sin."

Evans Is Fined $200 And Sent To Jail; Is Guilty Of Assault

Millard Evans, West End teamster, who was convicted of assault by a jury in Common Pleas court Thursday in connection with the shooting of Hugh Callahan last March, appeared for sentence Saturday morning when Judge Thomas imposed a penalty of $200 and costs and ordered the defendant confined in the county jail for six months.

In passing sentence Judge Thomas stated that the verdict returned by the jury was logical in view of the evidence adduced at the trial which showed that he was guilty of two felonies, first of gun-toting and then of using the weapon.

To Vote On Compromise Hour

Tomorrow morning in the Sunday schools and church services, it is expected that every superintendent and pastor will give his school or congregation a chance to vote on the proposed compromise hour for opening.

It is hoped strongly by the forward-looking superintendents and pastors who took part in the meeting last Thursday night that these superintendents and pastors will make as strong a presentation of this matter as possible, so that the people who express their opinions may realize fully what their vote means. The great purpose involved is not an arbitrary fixing of time for any reason, but the seeking of a compromise hour, which, though involving some possible sacrifice on the part of all, yet would result in seeing the schools of the city gathering at the same hour, with church services accordingly.

The adoption of this proposal would result in two great gains for the religious life of Portsmouth. First, it will mean an avoidance of all confusion regarding the hours of study and worship; as the bare announcement of "nine-thirty" can mean but one thing to any one no matter how people may read their clocks. Secondly, the real desire on the part of the Christian people of Portsmouth to get together and keep together on matters of common interest, will once again be made evident to the public.

As was strongly expressed at the meeting, the decision to begin the schools at this compromise hour would eliminate all unpleasant discussion of "time" from the Lord's Day and make it evident that if men can unite on nothing else, they can at least get together on matters touching the worship of God.

By the decision reached Thursday night, the vote of a congregation in favor of the compromise will be binding on it only when at least two-thirds of the churches of Portsmouth properly adopt the hour of nine-thirty. Pastors and superintendents are therefore urged to see that their people take action on the matter. Should they find it impossible or impracticable to alter their hour of assembling, they may so state, but a failure to vote at all is evidently to cast a vote against united action.

The committee, W. W. Gates, John T. Breece and C. M. Howland report optimistically that practically every church will take some action tomorrow morning. Superintendents and pastors are asked to report the result of such voting on Monday morning either to Rev. D. C. Boyd, 2632 N. or C. M. Howland, 1730-Y.

PLAYS DISARMAMENT PLAN

THE BELL PUMA, Fri. May 11—In a paper read before today's session of the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, John Hays Hammond declared disarmament on the part of the United States in the present state of international relations, unless other great powers disarm at the same time, would be the height of folly, if not a criminal blunder.

Self-Torture

We pity the misguided devotees who put stones in their shoes for a pilgrimage, or who walk over thorny paths to "make merit," but many of us have days when we walk our life road in much the same way, and with no such worthy end in view. We translate the careless speech into intentional offense, the little neglect into deliberate unkindness, the common duty into hardship, and press them in upon our hearts until the whole spirit is sore and bruised self-torture.

He asserted the union viewed the proposed sending in of federal troops with complacency, and added that it would welcome a congressional investigation of the situation to determine where the right and wrong lay.

Officials of the Williamson Coal Operators' Association, on the other hand, contradicted every assertion Mr. Robb made, from the question of which side started the present fighting to that of the number of miners and their families now living in tent colonies, which Mr. Robb fixed at 3,500 men, women and children. The operators' representatives declared that at the present time the mine owners have more employees than can be used and that coal production in the field is sixty percent of normal. They reiterated the statement of the association that the mines would be kept "open."

Gossip From The Capital City

(By Marcus)

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 14.—Until the Ohio Supreme court renders that emergency decision on the reorganization bill, things will be more or less at a standstill in Ohio so far as public events are concerned. The people's right of referendum which was supposed to have been guaranteed by the Constitution of 1912 and affirmed by the Ohio courts three years ago must again undergo a march to the judgment hall and from thence to a modern Calvary. It is an issue upon which it is small wonder that no one in public life dares to make plans or to lay calculations until he knows what the answer is to be. It is not a matter of party, but of principle. It is a question of whether or not the people shall be a great and solemn referendum on a great and solemn issue. More than that it is a question of whether constitutional guarantees are of any avail and if so to what extent. As the issue draws nearer, it is plain that it is being upon with an ever increasing degree of earnestness and with more and more attention. Anything about these days is almost a certain "first page story" despite German reparations, Polish war, Babe Ruth's hits and other things that editors think interests the laity.

If a little close analysis may be permitted, it is conceivable that the reason for the huge interest goes deep into our state and national history.

Strange how the raising of a moral issue has changed the entire nature of things as they were. There was a time when the opposition was treated with contempt and references to the constitution provoked only side-splitting roars. Today if the men who disregard warnings had it to do over again, there would be no case in the courts. Enough of them have told this old defender of liberty so. It shows a queer light on the matter, it does. There is another story, though, that is highly interesting. It is that the opposition to the emergency clause were making real headway until a certain W. E. Bailey, went down to Washington and conferred with certain long-headed political leaders and then the opposition was no longer a real issue. Now Mr. John E. Todd, Harry M. Baughman's former law partner, is in the case, and a great fight has been drawing on some of the fellows who watch the cards as they are dealt out. Of course, all these things may be coincidences, of course, of course. Nevertheless, they do cause men to talk in the clear stores and the near-by halls of sin.

The gang whose minds ran along with Governor Davis—best minds, worst minds, practical minds, medium minds—never got a worse shock than when the case developed before Secretary of State Harvey C. Smith. They expected the judge would do the dirty work for the party, evidently never having passed on his record and so-called his former decisions on moral issues, presidential primaries and the like, not to mention his opposition to the attempt to hamstring the declaration in the so-called reform code. The gangsters just could not believe that the judge would do the dirty work in making it easy to ask the advice of the Ohio Supreme Court in a legal matter of prime importance. They got another shock when Attorney General John G. Price was compelled to let his mind run along with Judge Smith. Before that event he had a conversation with his Excellency the Governor and interesting reading would be a stenographic copy of what was said. The rumors that filter around the corners of the capital were that the Governor was as mad as a hatter, a whole swarm of bees and none coming to help him. That may not be true, but in the policy of remote isolation some queer rumors do leak out of the cloistered retreats of the Governor's office. Still it can be added, no one heard three robbing crows follow the Price and Smith action.

Now, of course, as was said many times, the Governor's office will be determined by the legislature. If Governor Davis gets away with it, he will be the big man, but if he does not, he will be able to give an indication of a little man getting kicked down stairs. The thing is looked upon as being the end of him. It is strange now how they are discovering that he "does not belong" and how his fellow partisans look forward to the time when he will be near the end of his term. Opposition to him in the primary is now inevitable and his choice for state chairman Dave R. Jones of Cleveland, will have no more change than a bootlegger at a convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union if he does not win on every legislative matter now pending. They do say that the above mentioned tidbit is likely to come a whiff and that anyway the triumph is all set for Hon. George H. Clark of Canton, who has been advisory and real chairman for some months past.

Travelers over the fair bills of Ohio report this spring that a sight they had not seen in years is again to be seen. It is games of tramps crawling with their tin cans and other junk along railway tracks. This sight is not new, but it is a new sight. It is a sight of the future. All of which shows how little can be foretold. And the number seems to be increasing right along say the travelers, every day since the "change" which the country so heartily desired. Whether tramps and normally have a mutual attraction and consequently may be found together like well-known chemicals is a problem for the laboratories in Washington to work out. Farmers who make butter in some parts of Ohio say they are getting ten cents a pound for it and a newspaper correspondent calls it "the return of normalcy to the fullest." Be it so.

A little more information along this line is given by the Secretary of State reporting on new corporate enterprises for the last few months. The sixty-day period from February 1 to this time actually shows a decrease in authorized capital stock of Ohio corporations against a former increase that often averaged $3,000,000 for each working day month after month. The public revenues from corporate enterprises, too, have fallen away considerably. So far as Ohio state finances are concerned the new direct state taxes can be traced to the diminished revenues from sources like new corporations. The figures are cold affairs and represent an calamity howling but facts as they have been. May be that they will improve now, something that will be earnestly hoped by all, regardless of creed, political or otherwise. Can't they do as a bit of sage advice do not say "normalcy" to a gang of jobless workmen, heaven only knows what they will do.

There is a lot of talk going around about the highway situation in Ohio, meriting the serious consideration of Governor Harry L. Davis and his department. There are the going stories of "promotion" expenses and sale of patented highway materials and all that to do the general road building program any good and also too many tales of politicians who are interested in contracts. There may be many a thing in existence, but not a thing but then, the stories persist. Governor Davis is on over the state looking at the roads and after he gets back he may not find it amiss to have a lot of his friends also into his office for a little heart to heart talk before it is too late. Auditor of State J. T. Tracy has shelved a mouse all right and say he will devote all of his time to the situation of stopping thefts in the department. May be, but he is handicapped, definitely, by the legislature. For instance, there is the Hopewell Highway Investigating Committee with a terrible record back of it. This committee will not even meet to discuss its evidence or hear witnesses on deals that involve some of the Cleveland highway men who have their eyes on the trouble within 30 days after January 1. If there is later scandal in this affair, let the responsibility be fixed now. It will be partly on those who ordered the committee to stop just when it was certain that it had a bunch of highway rats by their long tails and was ready to pull them out and exhibit them.

Somehow even the paste board "reformers" in the Capital City could not hold the general sorrow when James Ross, long the good natured boss or leader of Franklin county Democracy, decided to lay down the reins of power as chairman and permit another to lift the load. The old reformer has known what it was to break through the enemy's lines and route him on the field and he knows what it is to undergo defeat. To use the terminology of the recent war, Ross' "inner front" never was broken, which is to say that his own partisans followed him as he was never more so, when there was never an office to give out as they were when the organization had a lot to give. All of this shows that the land had something more than mere loss as an incentive to activity. Defeat really tests a political leader. William H. Taft was not able to endure it and there have been other giants whom one good licking battered.

BY GEORGE McMANUS

ed out like a piece of fat under a steam roller. Like a general, if a political leader can survive a few reverses he is all the stronger for it. As was said even the "moleboard" reformers seemed to be sorry. Well the term is used because there has been little of anything that could be charged against Mr. Ross. If no bees were over worse the term never would have become offensive. And that is saying something.

An incident which one might refer occurred over on the House of Representatives side. One night the floor was packed with lobbyists of every description who had paraded themselves on the floor, in the smoking room and everywhere that could be found. They were working, these card and board lobbyists, registered and unregistered, political bosses, officials, bankers, railroad lawyers and general non-descript characters. A country member had a constituent who wanted to get inside the room behind the railing where he might catch a moment with his country representative while the representative might answer the machine gun fire roll calls. And a door keeper barred him out. "Others is orders," said he. "We have not had any one on the floor." A dozen feet away were a battalion of unauthorized persons. Well, it took a special dispensation from the speaker to get the old fellow to the floor, a man who would have had an idea in the world as to how to approach a lawmaker, let alone to do so improperly.

For ranting lobbyists let the crown and palm be awarded to Harry M. Baughman of Jefferson County. "Saw" said he to them and seal it was. He drove 'em off, he did. He knew neither friends nor party brother. He threatened to hire a bunch of detectives to get the officers of counties neglecting their duties to fight for terms extenders and he physically spotted the "jobs" on the floor the last two nights of the session and had them swept out into the corridors like so much rubbish. He wasn't afraid of them and being so different from about 100 other members, naturally he attracted attention. Still the incident of Carpenter driving out the money changers ought to show this bunch just what they do amount to. These Cleveland, Toledo, Cincinnati, Dayton and other bosses. Before one honest, determined man the whole bunch runs.

It is something beautiful the way the Eighty-fourth General Assembly plans to watch over the people's money. It is indeed, it will be said, as the glass are contemplated. It will adjourn for a few days, long enough to let the Governor act on all pending bills and then it will come back, yondering, to correct any possible mistakes. It is a new thing, this new way of doing things. It is a new thing, this new way of doing things. It is a new thing, this new way of doing things.

Victory Concert Well Attended

The largest audience so far this week attended the Victorious Life Conference at the First Baptist church and heard a most inspiring address by Rev. Robert C. Macmillan on "The Victorious Life and Service." The appeal was made especially to young people to dedicate their lives to the Lord Jesus Christ.

Mr. Macmillan made very plain that the center of every true Christian life was the Lord's call: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

"In the light of this last definite command of our Lord our lives must be regulated. He declared that we are at war, and we stand on one side or the other. The world is at war with God, and God longs for the world to be reconciled to Himself. All Christians are drafted into God's army. And just as in the late war of this country, not all who are drafted are sent to the front. But the draft meant that men of a certain age were to present themselves to the government, and their disposition was in the hands of the government to go or stay. If any were exempted from active service in the army it did not mean those persons were not in war, for every citizen of this country was in war with the enemy even though he might have been exempted from wearing a uniform. Just so in God's war every Christian is drafted for active service at the front, and if any stay at home let him see to it he has exemption papers from the Lord."

That the Lord spoke definitely in the meeting was evidenced by many young people standing to indicate their purpose to go to a foreign land to tell of the love of Jesus Christ, unless the Lord hindered. Many parents stood to dedicate their children to the Lord for foreign missionary service if that is the Lord's will.

There was no afternoon meeting today. At 7:30 this evening Mr. Macmillan will answer the question, "Is Jesus Christ coming back again?" when? He will preach Sunday morning and evening. On Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock there will be a great Victorious Life Mass meeting. It is earnestly desired that all Christians of Portsmouth will hear Mr. Macmillan's address on "Is it possible to live without sinning?" which he will deliver at the afternoon meeting. Time of the meetings is 3 p. m. and 7:30 p. m., fast time.

MAY REMOVE PLASTER CAST IN TWO MONTHS

George Cookes, six-year-old son of Earl B. Cookes of 1515 Fifth street, who has had his left leg in a plaster cast since last August, is anxiously looking forward to about two months from now when it is hoped the plaster cast may be removed. His condition has been improving steadily.

PIECE OF NEEDLE FOUND IN FOOT

Miss Ellen A. Chalk of 1233 Gallia street is suffering with a piece of needle in her left foot. An X-ray of the foot taken Friday showed about half of a needle in the foot. It will be removed by Dr. L. G. Locke.

Suffering from an attack of appendicitis, Fred Buckle, of Garrison, Ky., was rushed to Hempstead hospital Friday night and an immediate operation was performed by Drs. Ira and George Martin. The patient rallied nicely from the effects of the operation and Saturday was reported as resting comfortably.

Harry Woods son of Howard C. Woods of 1906 Ottawa street is seriously ill with typhoid fever. He was on the road to recovery when he suffered a relapse.

BUILDING COSTS

Is now the time to build? This, of course, depends upon how badly you need a building. If you must have a new building now, you will be able to secure a contract at considerably less than the same building would have cost you a few months ago. The following table, compiled by Roger W. Babson, shows approximately the position of the building material prices compared with the high point in 1920 and the average level in 1914. The prices represented are wholesale. In a general way, however, they show how much material costs have dropped and their relation to pre-war prices.

	Avg. 1914	High Price 1920	Price In Apr. 1921	% Decr. From 1920 High	% Inc. Over 1914 Aver
Brick, Hudson R. hard, M. N. Y.	5.75	25.00	15.50	38%	169%
Cement, Portland, excl. bags per bbl. at N. Y.	1.60	4.10	3.10	24%	94%
Lumber composite 10 grades Southern pine, M. feet, N. Y.	25.00	69.00	40.50	41%	62%
Nails, wire, per cwt. at N. Y.	1.55	4.50	3.25	28%	110%
Lime, East, common, per bbl. N. Y.	.92	5.20	4.20	19%	357%
Laths, East spruce per M. N. Y.	3.95	16.00	8.50	47%	115%
Glass, wd. 10x15 per box N. Y.	2.10	7.12	4.85	32%	131%
Structural Steel Shapes, per cwt. at Pitts.	1.15	4.00	2.20	45%	91%

Hardwoods which are not included in the above table, have declined 40 per cent or more from the high point.

About 40 per cent of the advance in prices which took place from 1915 to 1920 has now been retraced. This index is based on the prices of 8 important materials. While it, of course, will fit the individual case only approximately, it does indicate with fair accuracy the extent of price movements.

From the above it is apparent that it is much better to BUILD NOW than it would have been six months ago.

In line with our established custom of giving the customer the benefit of reduction in prices of lumber, etc., we have made further reductions in many items and can truthfully say, with lumber the lowest cost construction in the world, there is now no necessity for holding back.

Champion Solvays And Central Labor Council Battle To Tie

Game Called 2 To 2, Called In 7th Frame, South Paws In Duel

Team Standing

Team	P.	W.	L.	Pct.

Central Labor	1	0	1	.0000

Garbed in their navy new uniforms of white flannel, the Central Labor Council team of the Industrial League battled the champion Solvays to a 2 to 2 tie in the Seventeenth street yards, last evening before a crowd of fully 2,500 wildly enthusiastic fans. The two teams fought desperately all the way, and held on under the most dramatic of circumstances, furnishing a grand finale to the history of the great American game.

It was really a battle between two game southpaws, the renowned Howard Ellsworth Baughman of the Solvays and Mr. Freds of the Labor Council. Both batters emerged from the fray with honors hanging all over them, for they pitched buzz ball and had been given clean support not a man would have dared the rubber. It was one of those thrilling struggles that sends chills of thrill—thrills—thrills—in other words, classing each other up and down the grand old column. There were many tense situations that heart failure ought to have seen it. Twice each side had the bases full and none out and each time the eminent fingers arose in their might and prevented scoring. At those times, the support held fast for the least slip up would have been fatal. Both batters fielded their positions with skill. Mr. Freds establishing a league record when he had four put outs and two assists. The error that he spilled caused no particular trouble unless it served him to greater deeds for he pitched like a world beater and shared the honors of the evening with his opponent, one of the cleanest and most intelligent athletes that ever wore spiked shoes.

The Solvays found Mr. Freds for seven hits, three of which came in the opening inning, but had it not been for an error by the usually reliable Carl Monk, the Champions would have been shut out in this frame. The Labor batters made their two markers in the third frame and it required the assistance of a couple of errors to show these two across the plate. The class of ball put up last evening was on a par with that of any kind of a league, big or little and the fans had a feast they will be talking about for several days to come.

The crowd was of wonderful proportions considering the weather. When it began raining late in the afternoon, many hundreds of fans imagined it would be impossible to play, but thanks to some strenuous work on the part of the groundkeepers, everything was in tip top condition and while there was a wet spot here and there, the athletes were not bothered in the least by the dampness of the sod. The Labor team looked mighty fine in their new uniforms of white flannel piped in black, and they played the game right up to the handle. All the way they battled their stubborn foe and it was rather nice that the hand of fate handed out a fifty-fifty decision.

The Solvay Champs started out as though they were going to make a runaway race of it. After Prizel had fanned, Baughman landed on a slow out for a single to left. Shultz hit to Carl Monk for a chuck double play. Monk played the first put well for he tagged Baughman and then tossed far wide of first, giving Shultz second. At this point, Kitch, who was subbing at first and who did a mighty fine job in that position, laid the ash against one for a double and Shultz scampering home with the first run of the game. Hubert blazed a single to right and Kitch came home like a scared rabbit. Blake walked, but Cole scored to the box for the third out.

The Labor team made a couple of markers in the third and then moved off for the opening, although they were always trying. Freds was safe on Adams' error at second. Grimm shot a double to right, and Freds was caught at the plate but Hubert dropped Shultz's perfect chuck of the relay. Whereupon Riggins laid down a bunt, on which Prizel crashed in. Grimm, however, did not long fly to left and Dunham fanned. At this point Riggins was caught off first and ran down.

The Solvays had a great chance in the fourth. Cole shot a Texas leaguer to right and took two sacks. Myers landed the base and Cole was caught at first, but Freds dropped the ball as he went to toss it to Captain Cooper. Adams walked, filling the sacks. Prizel sent a short fly to right and Cole was doubled at the plate when Freds nailed Warner's base. Myers attempted to score a runner later on a bunt, but was caught at first. Mr. Freds' punch, the pitcher handling Smith's assist very quickly and artistically.

That Baughman is some pitcher in a pinch was also demonstrated in the sixth, when the Labor batters filled the bases with noise and set failed to reach home. Dunham walked and stole. Cooper bunted a single off Baughman's glove. Howard Monk singled. It was then that Howard Ellsworth got busy. Dunham was nailed at the plate on Smith's roller to third. Warner fanned and an Freds roller to third Cooper was slain at the plate.
